Conditions in Kentucky About Same.

Unless something is done in the near future to prevent the wholesale destruction of fish and game in and out of season, Kentucky fields will be bare of birds and the streams without fish. Even now there is but little use for the gun or pole and line, and the scarcity of game and fish is a constant inducement to violation of law in the shooting of game out of season and in the use of dynamite and seines.

Two things are necessary for the preservation of the game and fish. One of these is the protection of the game now existing, and the other is the stocking of streams and fields by means of fish hatcheries and game preservers.

The killing off of the game was a result of prejudice against the game laws, based on the belief that game laws were advocated solely for the benefit of city hunters, but the people now realize that good game laws are for the benefit of everybody.

The Kentucky Fish and Protective Association is now trying to get every hunter and fisherman in the state interested in the passage of better laws along this line. One of its plans is for the state to charge a license of one dollar per year to every man who hunts on other men's land, and to charge non-residents of Kentucky at least ten dollars per year for hunting in the state. Similar laws are now in every state in the Union except Kentucky and about three other states.

Under such a law a sufficient fund could be raised to employ men to see that fish and game laws are enforced and to provide stocks of fish and game for every field and stream in the state. Of course, if a man doesn't care a dollar's worth about hunting he wouldn't have to raise a license, and the burden would fall on those who would be glad to pay so small a sum for so much pleasure.

One of the big benefits to be derived by the farmers would be the enforcement of the posting laws and keeping trespassers off their lands. Under the present conditions, great many farmers allow themselves to be imposed upon rather than drive hunters away, but a small game warden would have no such feeling in the matter.

In order to make the appointment of wardens non-political, it is proposed to put the employment of the wardens under the supervision of a non-partisan commission of four, two to be selected by the Senate and two by the House of Representatives, who shall serve without compensation except for necessary expenses.

The new game laws have helped to replenish the supply of quail in Madison, but still hundreds are slain each year before and after the law expires. The fish laws are a farce and dynamite and seines are used without fear.

STOCK, CROPS AND FARM NOTES

—The Georgetown fair begins today to continue for five days.

—Parts of Nicholas county are suffering greatly from dry weather. In some places very little rain has fallen and stock water is running out and crops are burning up. All over the county there is much damage being done to the crops by the dry weather prevailing and the farmers regret that the vegetation is burning up faster than before known this year.

—The total receipts of live stock in the Chicago market for the week ending June 15, were 58,700 cattle, 111,200 hogs, and 89,000 sheep. The week's receipts, compared with the preceding week in round numbers increased 16,300 cattle, 14,600 hogs, and decreased 5,300 sheep. Compare with the corresponding period a year ago cattle increased 2,200, hogs 9,900, and sheep decreased 19,600.

—D. B. Martin & Co., of Philadelphia, bought in St. Sterling last week cattle of the following: A. C. Ratliff 93 head at 6 cents; English Anderson 422 cattle, 72 at 6 cents and 90 at 5 1/4 cents; W. T. Phelps 40 head at 5 3/4 cents; H. Sutton 23 head at 6 cents; Prewitt Young 48 head at 5 3/4 cents. These cattle go this month. The balance in October. This bunch of cattle will weigh from 1,400 to 1,700 pounds.

BUILD UP

in spring and summer, it's the natural time to store up health and vitality for the year.

Scott's Emulsion is Nature's best and quickest help. All Druggists.

Base Ball Fan is a Fickle Person

For the study of human nature, a fruitful field is found at the ball park. There human nature innocently and sincerely reveals itself. Insincerity and affectation are marked by their absence. The mask falls and men show themselves as they really are, just grown up boys, almost.

Got a Good Seat in Front Where He Could Kid the Players on the Visiting Team.

It is a good natured crowd that awaits the cry, "Play ball," meanwhile watching the practice and speculating upon the outcome of the game. They have dismissed all else from their minds—duties, engagements, debts and disease—and are perfectly happy in the abandon of the hour. They smoke, munch peanuts, drink divers brands of drinks, chat with their neighbors, utterly regardless of the conventions that require introduction, hurl gibes and taunts at the visiting players, give loud praise and encouragement to favorites.

His Majesty, the "Dope," stalks upon the field arrayed in all the armor of the fray. He doffs his cap and faces the grandstand to announce the batteries with a bravado in the consciousness of inevitable offense to one side or both, that somehow calls to mind the lines:

In the fell clutch of circumstance I have not winced nor cried aloud. Under the bludgeonings of fate My head is bloody, but unbowed.

The batsman assumes his position; the coaches loosen their tongues; the fielders begin their chatter; the pitcher winds up—the game has begun.

Now observe. Formality, restraint, dignity are thrown to the four winds. Interest develops into enthusiasm and excitement. Unpopular players become "lobsters," "has-beens," "boneheads," and many other varied and picturesque designations. The more fortunate brethren of the home team are "peaches," "candy kids," etc.

A man strikes at the ball. He is "swinging like a gate." He hits the ball and goes out at first, and who is politely informed that he runs like a cow, or moves "like an ice wagon." A fielder muffs a fly, and he is advised to "get a basket." A visiting player kicks on a decision and the umpire is strenuously advised to banish him from the field. The umpire sometimes "has a sneeze" and is "judging 'em right," but he is more likely to be accused of highway robbery and advised to "wash his windows." Home players are advised to "hit him on the beam," and the crowd is exhorted to "put him in the creek." One moment there is deafening applause, the next a subdued murmur of "ahs." The moment a player is a hero, the next he is an unspeakable ruffian, and the "hook orphans" can be vociferously called for.

The crowd is absolutely unconventional. Argument, joking, witticisms are indiscriminately indulged in by strangers. The interest of the moment has robbed men of all sense of so-called propriety, thus driving into exile all the shams of ordinary intercourse, and the spectators, preachers, lawyers, gamblers, or whatever they may be outside the ball park, are united in the spirit of a great brotherhood in the common delight and common enthusiasm of the hour.

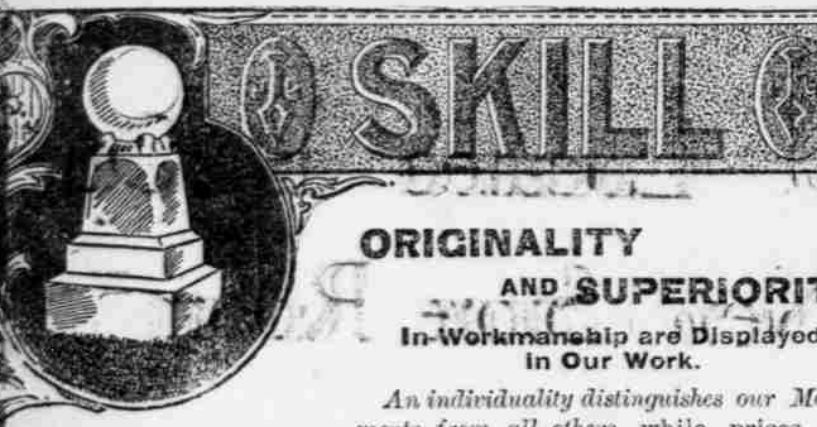

To observe humanity stripped of disguises, freed from restraints, permitting its real self to come to the surface, to behold the primitive passions, prejudices and emotions stand out in naked, bold relief; to understand what man would be untouched by the refining force of civilization—go to the ball park.

Death in Roaring Fire may result from the work of fleas, but often severe burns are caused by making a quick dash for Buken's Africa Salve. This quick, sweet, care-free burn, wound, bruise, boil, sore, it subdues inflammation. It kills pain and soothes and heals. Drives off skin eruptions, ulcers, or piles. Only 25c at Oberdorfer's.

WHAT CURES ECZEMA?

We have had so many inquiries lately regarding Eczema and other skin diseases, that we are glad to make our answer public. After careful investigation we have found that a simple wash of Oil of Watergreen compounded in D. D. D. can be relied upon. We would not make this statement to our patrons, friends and neighbors unless we were sure of it—and although there are many so-called Eczema remedies sold, we ourselves unhesitatingly recommend D. D. D. Prescription.

Because—We know that it gives instant relief to that torturing itch.

Because—D. D. D. starts the cure at the foundation of the trouble.

Because—it cleanses, soothes and heals the skin.

Because—it enables Nature to repair the ravages of the disease.

Because—The records of ten years of complete cures of thousands of the most serious cases show that D. D. D. is today recognized as the absolutely reliable Eczema cure.

Drop into our store today, just to see over your case with us.

LIQUID CURES ECZEMA WHERE SALVE FAILS

In regard to skin diseases medical authorities are now agreed on this: Don't imprison the disease germs in your skin by the use of greasy salves, and thus encourage them to multiply. A true cure of all eczematous diseases can be brought about only by using the healing agents in the form of a liquid. WASH THE GERMS OUT. A simple wash: A compound of Oil of Watergreen, Thymol, and other ingredients as combined in the D. D. D. Prescription, penetrates to the disease germs and destroys it, then soothes and heals the skin as nothing else has ever done.

A 25-cent trial bottle will start the cure, and give you instant relief.

Despair and Despondency

No one but a woman can tell the story of the suffering, the despair, and the despondency endured by women who carry a daily burden of ill-health and pain because of disorders and derangements of the delicate and important organs that are distinctly feminine. The tortures so bravely endured completely upset the nerves if long continued.
